NEEDS A GUARDIAN. Alfonso, the King of Spain, is degener ating. At the time of his accession he was thought to be a very modest youth. Now he is decidedly silly. It is not mere priggishness, but what the Yankee nation most appropriately terms "big-headed ness." We have a saying here that when one "gets the big head the best thing he can do is to go off and die," Of course this is slangy and vulgar; but there are times when slang alone will meet the emergency of utterance, and the pressure of feeling. For instance, it was a sign of lack self with a waiting lady of the chamber of the Queen that he gave his beautiful and affectionate wife cause for grief, and the world occasion for the rolling under its tongue of a precious bit of scandal. A King should manage his amours with greater discretion. This one has not the "excuse" of an unfaithful wife, Next the young King made an ass of himself by entering France as he did, and inviting public insult. Any one with an ounce of brains would have hesitated to stir up the French wolf by marching in with Uhlan decorations glittering on his breast, and a that they have exhibited remarkable for-German commission in his pocket. In fact, some of the King's counselors have had the courage to confess that his act was unwise. The next evidence that was made public testifying to the fact that Alfonso is growing too fast for his crown, was his declaration that he hoped to see his dear friend, the half-breed Bourbon Prince, upon the throne of France some day, and that if France did not cease to be a stirrer up of discord, he and the other kings of Europe would sup- of ten. The report of the General gives press the infant republic. That utterance a few years ago would have been sufficient cause for war, and to say the least was a should be disarmed; that they should be positive affront to a power to which Spain had just sent one of her most distinguished men on an errand of peace and good will. The latest evidence of "big-headedness" in the youthful monarch is found in the last foreign dispatches, which credit to Alfonso the fopish remark, on being congratulated in a recent address by some time-serving courtiers: "I know that I have a natural gift for speaking with frankness and assurance. When I landed at Barcelona in my seventeenth year I had to deliver on address while in the saddle, and that was my first speech." We certainly will not take issue with Alfonso regarding complement of that qualification. But it

Mr. Buckingham-To protect and restore Mr. Dibble-It is covered by the preamble The State Board of Fish Commissioners of the Act creating the Commission—the remet at their office in the Union Hotel on storation and preservation of fish in the waters of the State.

Mr. Redding—Section 642 of the Political ode says we are something more than a Fish Commission. We are, according to that section, a Game Commission also. The present Commission has taken no action looking toward the preservation of game.

Mr. Dibble said the last session of the Legislature relieved the Commission of the latter duty. There is considerable difficulty in the way of game protection. The Boards that time protested against such action, but he was ignored by the majority. In conserecent action of the Supervisors of Nevada county was in violation of law, but at the same time he was confident that juries could not be secured that would convict.

Mr. Buckingham was of the opinion that the county government bill relieved the Commission of the game question. SERGEANT BARWICK ON FOG. The following record of fogs for seven years east, and the time that rain fell after each foggy spell, shows in a majority of cases rain is usually precipitated after the cessation of fog. In the weather proverbs we find that heavy fog in winter, when it hangs below trees, is followed by rain." In Oregon the saving is that "these foggy or misty mornings indicate rain," and then, again, "a rising fog indicates fair weather; if the fog settles down, expect stormy weather." The following saying is appropriate now: "A win-ter's fog will freeze a dog." There was, according to our records, no foggy days in the fall of 1877 and none in 1878. In December, 1879, there were four foggy days, 16th and 17th, followed by rain on the 19th, 20th, 21st and 22d; foggy on the 29th and 30th. Rain fell on the 2d of January, 1880. In January, 1880, 188 uary, 1880, the 1st and 3d were foggy days; rain followed on the 2d, 7th, 8th and 9th. In December, 1880, there were foggy days on the 8th, 30th and 31st; rain on the 9th, following the fog on 8th; no rain followed the fog on the 30th and 31st until the 13th of January, 1881. In January, 1881, foggy days occurred on the 4th, 18th and 231; rain was precipitated on the 13th, 14th, 15th, 16th, 19th, 26th, 28th, 29th and 30th. In December, 1881, there was fog on the 9th, 20th, 21st, 22d and 23d, with a precipitation of moisture on the 10th, after the fog on the 9th, and then rain on the 24th, 26th, 27th and 28th. In December, 1882, it was foggy on the 16th and 17th, and rain fell on the 18th and 19th. In January, 1883, there were foggy days on the 10th, 11th and 12th, with no rain until the 24th. There were foggy days in December, 1883, on the 7th, 8th, 9th and 10th, and what to-day (the 11th) will be is yet to be found out. I myself shall look ahead with every prospect for a precipitation of moisture inside of ten days after the cessation of this foggy pell. This fog will not cease until there is a nore brisk movement in the atmosphere. The wind all along the coast from Tatoosh to San Diego at 8 o'clock last night was in a stagnant condition, there being at no place a velocity of wind above five miles per hour, except at San Francisco, where it was nine miles per hour, and at a great many points it was calm. This allows the cold air to settle in the valleys, and whenever it comes in contact with moist air, warmer than itself, it produces fog. That fog hangs over the valleys and river courses. I have seen from the summit of Mount Washington, New Hamp shire, bunches of fog in all directions hanging over the valleys or lakes. In fact, the Con necticut river could be traced in all its wind-ing course simply by the crooked fog lines seen by myself, because I was above the con-densed vapor of the atmosphere. The same no doubt, has been seen by the residents our mountain towns during this prolonged foggy spell of weather now existing. The Whear—There is but moderate spot business in progress, and the market is likely to be somewhat slow of movement until a change for the better occurs at leading foreign grain centers. Exporters are not giving a great deal of attention to offerings, which, it must be admitted, are not large, while holders are not anxious to force trade. From $1 80 to $1 85 per ctl will represent the range for good to choice qualities. At the Produce Exchange call session the sales were confined to buyer season contracts of No. 1 White, and 1,690 tons were transferred as follows 0 tons, $1 98½ : 200, $1 96½; 500, $1 96; 700, $1 95

CALIFORNIA. SAN FRANCISCO, December 10th.—In the case of Mrs. D. D. Cotton against Stanford, Crocker, et als., the deposition of Samuel M. Wilson has been taken, and will be read in evidence to-morrow. He testifies, in effect, that he had been in the employ of the railroad company, as attorney, to a considerable extent but the result of the parameter of the Guaymas is full of adroit thieves, several persons having been robbed during the last few days.

NEVADA. the deposition of Samuel M. Wilson has been taken, and will be read in evidence to-morrow. He testifies, in effect, that he had been in the employ of the railroad company, as attorney, to a considerable extent, but was an old friend of Mr. and Mrs. Colton, and at her request endeavored to obtain a settlement of the estate without a resort to law. He first thought that he ought to be able to get about $1,000,000 for her out of the company, but found the railroad people would listen to no such proposition. They claimed that the Western Development Company, of which Colton had been a member, was in debt, the liabilities being nearly $2,500,000 in excess of assets; that Colton's indebtedness to the company, on a note and otherwise, would cover the value of his interest; that in the management of affairs he had been guilty of fraud, embezzlement and robbery; that while making no threats to asperse the memory of Colton, it was a fact that to bring the matter into the Courts would have that effect. Deponent was afforded every facility by defendants to examine their accounts. Propositions for settlement were made and refused by both sides. Deponent called Lloyd Tevis to assist him in accomplishing a settlement. Tevis agreed to do so, for the sum of $200,000, to be paid to plaintiff. Deponent advised its acceptance, on the ground that the defendants had the power in their hands; that by forcing a sale of the stocks and bonds largely comprising the assets of the Western Development Company they would have made the Colton estate insolvent by virtue of Colton's indebtedness to the company, besides exposing the questionable character of some of his operations, which defendants at their own price; that a resort to law would have made the Colton estate insolvent by virtue of Colton's indebtedness to the company they would in the proposition was the best solution of the questionable character of some of his operations, which defendants at their own price; that a resort to law would have made the Colton estate insolvent by virt

Murder and Robbery. COMESTONE, December 10th.—About 1:30 o'c evening a couple of couriers reached Tombs

last evening a couple of couriers reached Tombstone from Bisbee, with the news of an appalling and bloody tragedy enacted in that place a few hours previous. The names of the parties bringing the news are Wm. Wallace and Jas. Kregan. From the former wro gathered the following details of the crime, which for coolness and audacity, coupled with reckless and bloody disregard of human life has no parallel in Arizona: Shortly after 7 c'clock a party of five men, moun'ed and armed, rode into the town, and when within a hundred yards or so of the store of A. A. Castenada, dismounted, leaving their horses in charge of one of their number, and boldly walked up to the store mentioned. Two of the party entered the store and the others remained boldly walked up to the store mentioned. Two of the party entered the store and the others remained outside. Going up to the clerk, one of the robbers demanded the money in the safe, accompanying it with the remark, "To be d—d quick about it." After getting the money he went into the rear room where Castenada was lying sick, and taking him roughly from the bed, said: "Where is your money?" Castenada replied that it was in the safe. The robber, who was evidently posted, walked up to the bed, and turning down the pillow, took from under it a s.ck containing about one thousand dollars. The whole a amount procured by the robbers will not exceed $5,000. While two men were robbing the store the balance of the gang began shooting indiscriminately at every person in sight. One story is that they first warned parties to keep off the street before firing. This is, however, denied. The first intimation the citizens had of what was going on was the sound of rifle shots, desultory at first, but rapidly resolving into a regulators and the continuous stream of ELECTRICITY permeating through the parts must restore them to healthy action. Thre is no mistake about this instrument. Years of use have lested it, and thousands of cures are testified to. Weakness from Indiscretion, Incaracity, Lack of Vigor, Sterility—in fact, any trouble of these organs is cured. Do not confound that with electric belts advertised to cure all ills from head to tee.
